creased until the birds are ready for their first 100-mile race. Distances for races are increased gradually up to 900 miles, Gartner said.

On the night before the race a time clock-punched rubber band is placed around the bird's leg. The birds are sent by truck to the starting point and released.

Winners are established by complicated system which involves the use of logarithmic tables, according to Gartner.

The Bristol Homing Society was recently organized as a non-profit organization "to breed, train and race homing pigeons." Members are from all walks of life and include two ministers, a doctor and executives.

Officers of the club include Albert Schmitt, president, John Snyder of Croydon, vice president, and Robert Cottrell of Eddington, chairman of the race committee.

The Society is constructing a club house on Bristol Pike between Bristol and Croydon which is nearing completion.

Bucks Planners

Simon K. Moyer, both of Doylestown; Stockham, 3d, Morrisville, all members of the Bucks County Planning Commission; Ernest H. Harvey, of Langhorne, chief clerk of the Planning Commission; and Michael Rapano, of Lower Makefield, landscape architect.

Conversion

According to Harvey, who is also a member of Washington Crossing State Park Commission, the Park Commission is authorized to accept land tracts from public-minded citizens for conversion into parks and recreation facilities.

With the consent of the Bucks County Commissioners and with funds appropriated by them, the commission also is authorized to purchase land.

On Sept. 14, the Citizens Council for Bucks County Planning issued a brochure urging the appointment of a park commission.

Harvey said the county government does not own any parks and in view of the vast population growth there was a need for recreational facilities. Another purpose, he pointed out, is to preserve the green and open character of the county.

He said two or three land offers had been made by interested citizens, the county had no agency to accept the grants.

The Planning Commission expressed pleasure over the appointment of a park commission, and the Planning Commission will look forward to cooperating fully with the new county agency, it is stated. The Commission will make available all its information acquired on park recreation and other subjects which will be of use to planning a recreation park program for the county.

Local Planning

The question of increased local planning assistance was discussed, as the result of a request for such aid from West Rockhill township. The staff was instructed to make a study of standards the resources and the basis on which the expenses for technical planning work should be shared. Carl W. Wild planning consultant reviewed for the members of the Commission, his preliminary report of conclusions and recommendations on land use in lower Bucks county.

Witness Claims

was Patrolman Joseph Kish, a Falls township policeman who testified that he saw Wheatley shoot at Calderelli.

"I heard Calderelli say to Wheatley, 'What have you got there?'" Kish said. "Then Wheatley fired. "Calderelli had nothing in his hand but at the shot he backed up and drew his revolver. Then there was a volley of shots, and when it was all over Calderelli slumped to the ground," Kish said.

The other witness, Samuel Fite, of Morrisville, driver of the bus involved in the accident, said he saw Calderelli and the younger Wheatley fighting on the road, and that Calderelli hit the son on the head with his flashlight.

In later testimony he said he heard shots but did not see the shooting.

Calderelli has recovered from bullet wounds of the abdomen purportedly sustained in a gun fight with the older Wheatley. However, physicians say that his wounds will continue to drain for the next two years.

Wheatley pleaded not guilty before Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite to charges of assault and battery with intent to kill.

State To Attempt

The state will attempt to prove that it was after the son's arrest that Wheatley returned to his garage on Oxford Valley road, near Langhorne and returned to the scene of the accident with revolver. District Attorney Curtin indicated that he expected a long trial when he asked for and received permission from Judge Satterthwaite to install alternate juries to hear the testimony.

Both Wheatleys have been free on a total of $46,000 bail. The younger Wheatley will be tried at a later date.

Motion Dropped

stein said that in the Bristol Township schoolroom shortage, "the emergency exists in Levittown."

"We have one 20-room school," he said. "We don't have our own neighbors to sit on the school board or on the commissioners to do anything for us."

"Are we, with 70,000 population in the next two years, afraid to govern ourselves?" Morgenstein said. "If a group of officials in office displeases us, there isn't much we can do about it. If our forefathers had asked 'what would it cost,' we would probably still be British subjects."

Hitov urged the association to await completion of his committee's study before acting.

Legal Mechanics

"The legal mechanics of incorporation are such that whether we passed a motion now or in January would make no difference when it is brought to court," Hitov said, adding that he will make a report at the beginning of next year. "The waiting period would be approximately two years."

Another committee member, Ulrich Frank, of 61 Leisure lane, also chairman of the education committee, said that in incorporating before the study is completed, "we would not know if we were incorporating ourselves into triple and quadruple sessions in the schools."

"There are a lot of problems that we must consider," said Henry J. Lotto, of 35 Fawn lane, a member of the Bristol Township Parents Association. "A lot of us would like to know what our taxes are going to be under incorporation. Let's have the fact first."

Favor Wards

Lotto said that in a conversation with the Bristol Township Commissioners, before the Civic Association convened, he learned that "the commissioners are all in favor of having additional wards created in Levittown. That would come in six or eight months," Lotto said.

To add wards in the township, Lotto said, "a petition must be circulated and then presented to the county court. There should be approximately one ward for each 1000 people," he said. "In Bristol Township we now have 2000 people in Levittown."

Secretary Holmes McCormack, of 12 Shepherd lane, moved that the association's government committee "find out how to create more wards in Bristol Township." The motion was carried by a majority of members present, who later moved to study the possibility of larger representation in Falls Township and Tullytown Borough.

Chamber Defers Action on Parking Till Later Meeting

The Bristol-Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce last night deferred action until a later meeting on the Mill street parking problem. Ways of assisting the Mill street merchants in financing expansion of the parking out there were discussed.

Also under discussion was a new schedule of industrial dues presented by W. B. McClure, chairman of the sub-committee on the matter.

Scheduled for Monday is the election of five members to serve three-year terms on the C of C board of directors. Of the 13 men on the ticket two were nominated for re-election. They are Samuel J. Farrugio of the Bristol-Philadelphia Auto Express and John C. Johnson, cashier at Farmers National Bank, Bristol.

Others nominated are: C. Don Cameron of Croydon, Bernard Glacier of Morrisville; Charles Luciano of Tullytown; Joseph McGinnis of Eddington; Paul Sauerbry of Langhorne and Horace P. Schmidt, Carter S. Grant, S. U. Gratz, Burgess I. J. Hetherington Sr., A. E. Lewis and Norman K. Vogel of Bristol.

Balloting will be by mail. Deadline is 5 p. m. of election day in the C of C office in the Farmers National Bank building.

Completion Delayed On Borough Well

Completion of the new Borough well at the foot of Mill street hill may take another two months, Borough Engineer Livingston Joyce said yesterday. It had been hoped the well would be in operation by yesterday.

Drilling is continuing, Joyce said. A pump will have to be installed, pipes laid and housing for the pump constructed.

When it is in operation, the new well will produce an estimated 432,000 gallons of water daily.

The Bristol water system has eight wells on Bath road and two in Edgely producing about 4,000,000 gallons daily, Joyce said.

"We need about 1½ million gallons more daily to supply all the demand for water," Joyce declared. At present it is necessary to apply water restriction on manufacturing plants.

Today's Quiet Moment

Rev. Halbert R. DeMeester
Pastor
Christ Episcopal Church
Eddington

What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?—1 Cor. 6:19.

For times of temptation, the thought that the body is the home of the Holy Spirit and does not belong to us should arouse in us a sense of stewardship, a desire to care rightly for that which has been lent us, and to return it increased in beauty and in usefulness.

This desire should bulwark our weakness, should give a definite aim in our fight against lust and other evils, by turning our thoughts into a creative channel will ease our strain. And each battle won makes us stronger for the next.

"Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, who thyself wast tempted as we are, yet without sin, give me grace to meet this temptation which now assails me and which I would overcome. Enable me to check all evil thoughts and passions, all enticements to self-indulgence or dishonest gain, and to find, like thee, my highest satisfactions in the doing of my Heavenly Father's will." (Prayers for all Occasions).

Pennsbury is now coached by Jim Egli, former coach of Neshaminy.

The other league game will be played Saturday afternoon with Delhaas travelling to Newtown to play Coach "Sage" Sagolla's Council Rock team. The game will mark Delhaas' entry into the Lower Bucks circuit.

Buck Baker Sets Sights on Honors In Sunday Race

LANGHORNE, Sept. 16 — Buck Baker, the former taxi driver who annexed the "200" mile at the Darlington course last week, is scheduled to arrive in town today for a few practice spins around the Langhorne Speedway in preparation for the running of the 250-mile Grand National Circuit Championship, scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Baker is a versatile performer. In addition to being a top negotiator of the late model stock sedans, he won the speedway division championship last season and from time to time he appears in competition around the short raceways. The former taxi driver from the streets of Charlotte, N. C., won the 150-mile Grand National at Langhorne in early May—his first win around the world's fastest mile raceway.

The Langhorne "250" mile figures to be a great deal different from the Darlington Grind, and that is probably the reason Baker arrived in town so early. At Darlington he competed on a hard surface. Sunday he'll be broad-sliding the fastest circular dirt mile in the Nation.

Dick Rathman, winner of the International "200" in June — the first race featuring European and Domestic stocks around a speedway—is another top performer set for the Sunday grind around the famed Bucks County course. During the last two years, Rathman has established a better record than any other driver in NASCAR competition. The Daytona Beach speedster seems to be at his best at the longer distances then, too. He appears to have found his groove at the "Horne".

The speedway will be open for the remainder of the week. Saturday afternoon time trials will be staged. It will be necessary for each driver to qualify for the 200-mile and his Saturday time will place him in the Sunday classic.

Bucks Historians Set Meeting In Fallsington

FALLSINGTON, Sept. 16 — The Bucks County Historical Society will hold its regular Fall meeting in the Friends Meeting House, Fallsington, on Saturday, Oct. 3, at 2:30 p. m.

The women's committee in charge of arrangements has arranged an interesting program for the day. It is hoped to have several of the old homes on Meeting House Square open for inspection of members of the society, their guests, and any of the public who may attend the meeting because of an interest in historical matters. The members of this committee, all from the lower end of the county and representative of the section, include Mrs. Hugh B. Eastburn and Mrs. Anne Hawkes Hutton, of Edgely; Mrs. Henry C. Parry and Mrs. John H. Wood, of Langhorne; and Mrs. Edgar T. Snipes, of Morrisville.

Speakers will be Mrs. Snipes, who will talk on "Phineas Pemberton and His Influence on Falls Township and Meeting"; and Hugh B. Eastburn, Esq., who will trace the "Role of the Delaware River in the Development of Bucks County." Both speakers have deep roots in this section, are steeped in its history and traditions, and can speak with authority of those whose forebears helped settle the region.

To Focus Attention
The meeting this year is of especial significance in view of the rapid expansion in this part of the county, a spokesman said. It will focus attention upon one of the oldest townships in the State. It will bring the society and its activities before that large group of newcomers into the area, helping to inform them of the historic traditions which have become theirs by right of residence here, and will, it is hoped, win many supporters of the society from among these new Bucks County residents, the spokesman added. This is the first meeting the society has held in this area since its meeting in 1937, which was held at the home of Senator Joseph R. and Miss Meta Grundy.

In addition, this meeting marks the 27th anniversary of the founding of the Friends Meeting for worship in the township. First services were held here in the homes of Friends who were prominent in affairs of the colony—notably the Biles, Yardley and Kirkbride families. From this meeting, the first in the county, sprang those other old ones at Buckingham and Bristol.

Hope Church Sets Ground Breaking For October 4th

LEVITTOWN, Sept. 16 — Tentative date for ground-breaking ceremonies for the first unit of a five-building center of Hope Lutheran Church, Haines and Mill Creek roads, here, has been set for Oct. 4th.

The first unit, according to the pastor, the Rev. Louis A. Kaufmann, Morrisville, will be an "all-purpose building."

Temporarily this building, which will accommodate 250 people, will be used for services of worship and for Sunday School classes until the main edifice and other structures are erected on the six acre tract.

All Purpose

The "all-purpose" building, to be of cinder block construction, with brick veneer, will cost approximately $75,000. The structure, to be one story in height, will also house a basement room. In the latter there will be rooms for Church School purposes and social activities. The main floor will, for the first several months, be used as a chapel, also house some Sunday School classes until the main edifice is built. On one end of the large building will be erected a stainless steel cross. This will be flood-lighted.

The six acre tract, which will include an athletic field, is, according to the pastor, "The largest plot of ground of the Lutheran denomination (Missouri Synod) in the Philadelphia area." Plans also call for off-street parking.

To Face Road

The first unit will face Haines road.

The tract of Hope Church is located on the former Leroy Stackhouse farm.

Other proposed units for the plant are Christian Day School which can be built in segments (total of six classrooms); main edifice of worship; parsonage; and teacherage. At present the parsonage is located on Dogwood drive, across from the church tract. The vicar, Charles Ertman, occupies the house.

Engaged as architects are Frank M. Bates Associates.

A kindergarten is to be started Sept. 28 at 334 Dogwood drive (the present parsonage). This will continue to house kindergarten pupils until the all-purpose building is completed on March 1st. This is one of 1200 elementary schools in the Lutheran system in the U. S. (Missouri Synod) according to the pastor.

The church membership is 55. The church was organized last June 8. It is incorporated under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania. Sunday School scholars total over 700, classes being held in the local parsonage and in Fallsington Library. The entire group will be moved to the all-purpose building next March.

The church sponsors a Cub Pack and a Brownie Troop of Scouts.

Levittown Unit Leads Hospital Community Drive

The community division of the Lower Bucks County Hospital completion fund got under way yesterday, with the Levittown unit leading the drive.

Enough resident workers are enrolled in the area, according to community co-chairmen Mrs. Roba C. Goebig and Warren A. Jennings, to contact every home in Levittown. In explaining the reason for starting the community campaign in Levittown, Jennings said, "Levittowners have exhibited such a fine spirit of initiative, self-reliance and pioneering, that the entire unit is the first prepared to go all-out and establish results."

"The willingness of their participation should set the pattern and example for the entire community division."

The community chairmen pointed out that the average person has need of a hospital once every eight years. If there are three others in the family, the need will occur once every two years.

Jennings pointed out that, "An adequate modern hospital is a must in any community. To save your life you cannot make a better investment. The public is now being invited to make this investment and complete the needed project."

Area Trucking Firm Wins Judgment In Damage Suit

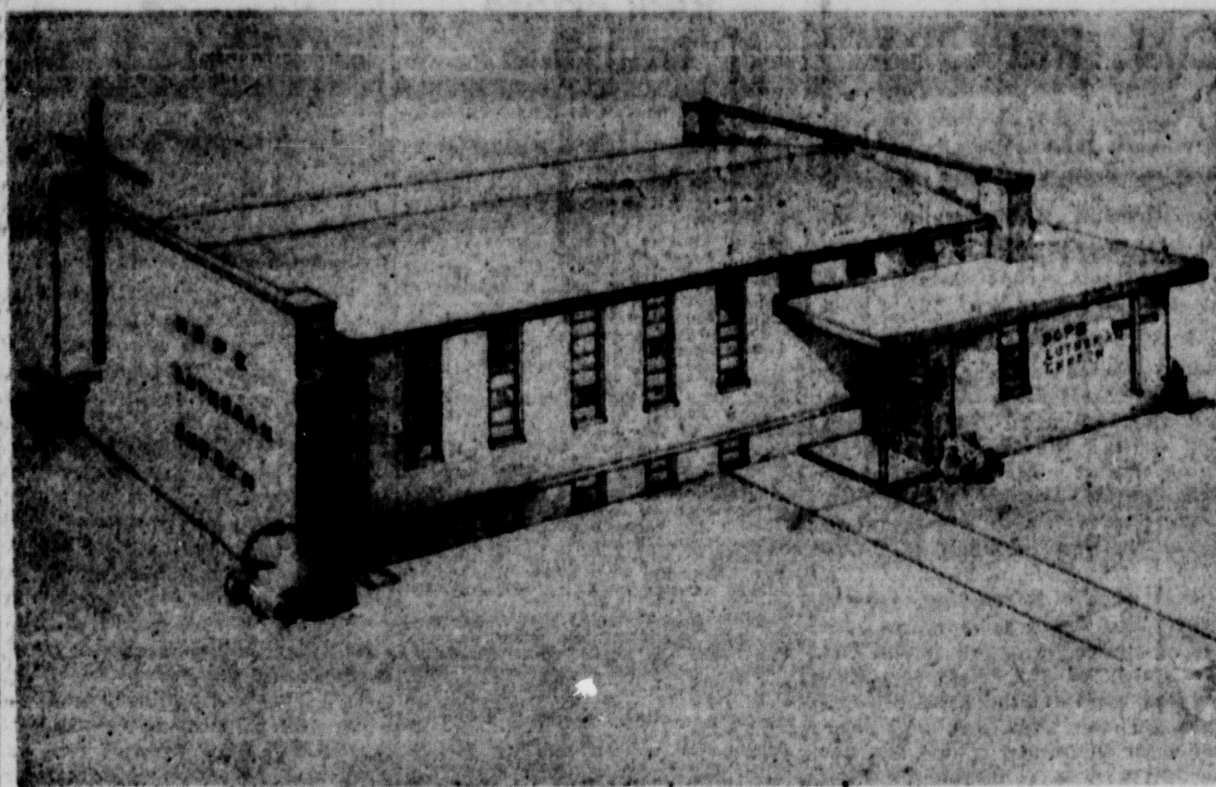

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15—William H. States Jr. and his wife Edna, trading as States Trucking with headquarters at Cornwells Heights won a $79,082.79 judgment from the Atlantic Refining company.

The four-year-old suit for damages brought by the States was disposed of by Judge Gerald Flood in Philadelphia Common Pleas Court No. 6. The States were represented by Attorney Charles A. Rothman. Judge Flood stipulated that this was a tentative opinion and announced that counsel for both sides may submit briefs or requests for findings and conclusions.

The suit was for $100,000 damages, and followed a fire on the morning of September 9, 1949, when an Atlantic Refining Company tanker was unloading gasoline into the underground storage tanks on the States Trucking premises.

During the lengthy hearings before Judge Flood, it was testified that the driver of the tanker walked away and left the motor of the tanker running, and while he was in a nearby house, the truck caught fire and an explosion followed.

Firemen Want Access To Turnpike Section

YARDLEY, Sept. 16 — Although the Delaware River Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike running through lower Bucks county will have more fire companies stretched along it than along any other section of the projected statewide super highway, no efforts so far are being made to cooperate with the Bucks firemen in fighting truck fires, aiding accident victims or having access to the express highway, according to Harry M. Eckert, Jr.

Eckert, representing the Bucks County Rescue Squad of Croydon, at the Fall convention of the Bucks County Firemen's Association, asked William L. Stackhouse, Doylestown, former Sheriff and past president of the BCFA, what the turnpike commission intended to do about the accident, fire and emergency calls which are sure to happen once traffic begins rolling on the deluxe road.

"There is no doubt the truck traffic at the Bucks-Delaware river crossing terminus will be much heavier than at the Ohio end of the turnpike," said Stackhouse, who is employed by the Pennsylvania Turnpike now.

Eckert, who explained that the New Jersey Turnpike has made provisions for the firemen, rescue and ambulance corps, said: "We should have a gate put in the fence along the highway every three or four miles apart so that individual fire companies can get on the turnpike to fight truck or car fires and help in accident cases."

"The gates would be locked and only firemen or rescue squad workers would have a key to open the gates," Eckert said.

"I think Mr. Stackhouse should contact the turnpike authorities and find out what they intend to do to help the firemen," said Eckert.

A Treves fireman explained that nearly 10 companies are located along or within a stone's throw of the turnpike and yet the only place for them to enter will be at Willow Grove or interchange near Bristol.

"Something will have to be done to help the firemen because the accidents and truck fires now on the turnpike are something to worry about," said one fireman.

The Sisterhood will also hold an afternoon card party on Monday, Sept. 28 at 1:30 p. m., at Fallsington Library.

The Sisterhood of Temple Shalom, Levittown's Reform Jewish Congregation will hold its monthly meeting at the Delhaas High School on Monday, Sept. 21, at 8:30 p. m.

The special feature planned for this meeting will be a demonstration by the head hair stylist of the Original Vincent and Joseph of Philadelphia who recently opened a branch in the Levittown Shopping Center. This demonstration will be followed by an open question period.

The Sisterhood will also hold an afternoon card party on Monday, Sept. 28 at 1:30 p. m., at Fallsington Library.

Morrisville Still Seeks Applicants For Borough Post

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 16—Applications are still being accepted for the position of borough secretary or manager, according to E. Dillwyn Darlington, borough solicitor. About eight have been received so far, six for secretary and two for manager, according to Darlington. "I expect we will take some action on or about Oct. 1," he said.

Morrisville has always had a secretary in the past, but council is considering hiring a manager instead. "It all depends on the man and his qualifications," Darlington said. The position was left vacant this year after the death of William Howell, who held the position for more than 25 years.

Applicants may apply by letter to Darlington at his office, 20 N. Pennsylvania avenue, stating experience, education, age and salary desired.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof. —Zech. 8:5.

That was bold hope for a city that was destroyed and its inhabitants in captivity, but it came true. Countless other greater cities once destroyed never rose again. This was more than a lucky guess. God needed Zion.

RUSSIA'S TRADE

Russia is making progress toward a cherished goal—trade with the West in such volume that the Soviet economy will be noticeably benefited.

By purchase and barter Russia is picking up considerable consumer goods in Britain, France, Denmark and Holland. Moscow is attempting to negotiate similar deals with Iran for oil, West Germany for textiles and Norway for fish. Russia is bidding with British shipbuilders for trawlers, presumably for commercial purposes. This craft can be converted into minesweepers.

If Malenkov can achieve a heavy trade in consumer goods with the West, it will be quite a feather in his cap. Unable to obtain quality consumer goods in communist lands, he hopes to achieve a higher standard of living for dissatisfied elements in his subject population, while buttressing the red war machine.

Some observers see disaster in what they describe as a high Russian hoard of gold. They think Russia can tempt fiscally struggling European nations to the point that they will fill Russian war orders. If this happens, the United States may, belatedly, take a new attitude toward double-crossing allies.

Agency Plans Tour For Visiting Firemen

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (INS) — Friendship, beautiful friendship, is a lovely thing. But in this city, always awash with visiting firemen from the old home town, it can crowd a man into bankruptcy with the speed of light.

This stems from the fact that all visiting kith, kin and old school friends, no matter how staid on home grounds, are hell-bent to kick up their heels in the city's flesh pots and its night clubs.

Naturally, they expect the deluxe night club circuit tour under the aegis of the kith they are visiting, usually a poor Wight who doesn't know a head waiter from a hack saw.

The nation's fixed image of the average New Yorker as a cross between Diamond Jim Brady and the Marquess de Cuevas is a misconception which the true citizen bears with as much dignity and financial stamina as possible.

Faced with one more compulsory tour of the gay spots, he braces himself, braces his friends for a few hundreds till Friday, ropes the party together and sets forth for the roaring fifties. He goes like the quarry slave scourged to his dungeon, as another newspaper man, William Cullen Bryant, once remarked — probably about an ancestor of this same poor city sucker.

However, I have gladsome news for my fellow townsmen. They are about to wiggle off the hook. I have before me a brochure announcing a service heretofore unavailable, but one which will fill a long-felt need of city dwellers. Loftis tours, a de luxe travel agency, will introduce this autumn "an evening in New York night clubs to be called Manhattan Revel." For a slight charge of $60 per person, the visiting firemen can twine vine leaves in his hair in five famous New York night spots, all under the urbane guidance of the Loftis people.

In the future, the average New Yorker who wants only to be left alone with his pipe and his personal problems after 7 p. m., can steer old Bill or Aunt Em to Loftis tours. It may come as a grave shock to old Bill and Aunt Em that it costs actual money to see the city's night life.

But even if they balk at ante-ing up the fixed fee, most New Yorkers will hand it over gladly if only they are permitted to stay home while the friends and loved ones go the route with Loftis. Indeed, the Loftis people will get visiting firemen into joints where the ordinary New Yorker couldn't get by the velvet rope with a ha-zooka.

For instance, the first rendezvous spot at 7:15 p. m. is "a five-story mansion, once the home of the Donahues, heirs to the Woolworth fortune, later a notorious speakeasy operated by Texas Guinan's brother, "Larry Fay, prohibition era racketeer, was slain on the richly carpeted stairs. It gave Louis Bromfield the inspiration for a short story which later became Mae West's first movie."

Furthermore, James L. Loftis, head of the tourist agency, explained to me that the man who now owns this hallowed spot was the waiter who caught Larry Fay and in whose arms he died the night the gang torpedored him.

This place is now so exclusive I have never been able to get into it, and my Aunt Em will do a lot better with Loftis than with me.

(This tour will also settle the hash of another mob consisting of American tourists who come home from Paris squawking about club joints. The American Express Club tour of Paris night clubs is still pegged at 4500 francs or about $13, or $47 less than the New York tour.)

Anyway, New Yorkers are eternally indebted to Mr. Loftis, who done freed us slaves.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SCHAUBURG RATHHAUS, WEST GERMANY — One of the heart warming experiences during this visit in West Germany is a visit to the food distribution centers set up to help the hungry citizens living across the line in the Communist paradise.

It is difficult to believe that even the Communists could manage to starve so many people so thoroughly in so short a time.

The Schaumburg Rathaus is a large assembly hall — sort of a city hall where the West Berlin government officials conduct the affairs of this free half of Berlin. At the time of my visit, some weeks after the food distribution had been underway, there was a long line of women, many with children, all of whom carried market baskets or bags of some type. Most were pathetic appearing, ranging in age from toddlers to old women — one in particular, dressed completely in black, including black hose.

I had an opportunity to talk to one of the policemen present, helping the women with their food packages, but mostly on the alert in case of a Communist goon squad raid. The West Berlin officials have assigned the toughest and best trained policemen to this detail, but capable and efficient as they are, they cannot help but feel the emotional impact of hungry people grasping for the free good.

Most, too, are aware that the food comes from the U. S. A. and that it will keep on coming as long as there is a need. The policeman I talked to while watching the East Germans walking down the long line to the food distribution table, told me of Communist attempts to be-little the program. He said that the Communists distributed pamphlets telling West Germans that the food being handed out was a niggardly amount. It is not, of course, but even if it was they come after it by the thousands, returning time and again whenever they can cross the border safely. This fact alone turns the Communist propaganda back on those who spout it, because if the packages contain very little as the Communists claim, then the East Germans under the Kremlin heel must be hungrier than any of us imagined.

Due to the alertness of the West Germans, particularly Mayor Ernst Reuter, we are taking advantage from a propaganda standpoint of being able to reach so many Germans living under the Red yoke. With each food package the hungry East Germans are handed a cloth bound book, which ridicules claims of the Communists and has, in the corner two letters, a capital X and A K. The letters represent the German words which mean "next time it works," and they refer to the recent riots in East Berlin and elsewhere.

Recent refugees from the Communist sector say that the symbols are spreading like wildfire throughout the Red area. That Germans are writing the letters on everything they can reach and that the Communists are getting slightly hysterical trying to stop them or erase the letters when they see them.

One of the heartening aspects of the visit to the Schaumburg area food distribution center is the fact that most of the West Germans helping hand out the packages and care for the tired and sick who come for them, are volunteers, not getting paid a cent for the long hours they stand alongside the line of hungry people.

There is a general atmosphere of good will, helpfulness and solicitude all along the line. I have talked to many of those working and many of those who came for the food, through an interpreter, and if there is any resentment to the U. S. or to the West Berliners, I failed to spot it.

Surprisingly enough there are quite a few farmers and farm hands in the line, but on second thought it is understandable. The farmers in East Germany are little more than collectivized state workers — and everything they produce is turned into state collection points. If they fail to do so they face prison or death. Little is handed back to them for their families and this is the reason they have to come to West Berlin for American food packages to keep from starving, even though many of them just finished harvesting bountiful crops. But still the Kremlin keeps bragging about a superior way of life under its direction, and sadly enough, people continue to believe it — not only in Europe but our own U. S. A. as well.

Your Birthday by STELLA

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

—Born today, you are one of those individuals who has the best taste in everything. Since you can enjoy only the finest in music, literature and art, you will spend much of your energy in life seeking it. You are, of course, a perfectionist and if you do not write, compose or paint, yourself, it will be because you feel that you don't have that spark of genius which one should have to turn out first rate work. Actually, you must not be so reticent, for the stars have given you creative as well as appreciative talents which you should utilize.

You have a fine sense of justice and want to see that all the world enjoys a fair and square deal. You want your own life to be harmonious and happy unless you can enjoy exactly what you want, where you are you will travel far to find it, not settling down until you do. You have exceptionally strong ties of home and family and you will do everything in your power to bring happiness. When it comes time for you to leave your own family rooftop, it would be wise for you to set up your own household, for without the love and inspiration which your own family group gives you, you cannot find complete happiness. You have a great store of loving affection which should have an objective at all times.

You have pride in your own work and will take the greatest pains with every tiny detail to make sure that everything is exactly perfect. You women, as well as you men, know how to keep a confidence.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Thursday, September 17

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) — Show your interest in others and you will win co-operation in an objective of your own. You can profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Combine business and pleasure, even on a trip if you wish, and there should be a great deal of success in store.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) — Don't cry over the past. What is gone, is gone, and the future is all that counts. Plan carefully for it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 22) — Be alert to all details when it comes to making decisions and working on an important project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Mental work is favored. Use your brain to its utmost and you will find that you can solve all problems.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — This is a bad day for accidents. Be more than ordinarily careful if you work with machinery or electricity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Make plans on a grand scale, but carry them out with very careful attention to the most minute detail.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — If you are confident and have high hopes for the future, it is surprising how near your success can be!

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — This is not a good day for major objectives. Don't experiment too much. Hold to your regular pattern.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — If your job calls for added responsibility, your capabilities should make it possible for you.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Do your best. Pay no attention to those who are carpingly critical! The results of your work are the ultimate best.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — If things are developing more slowly than you had hoped, just be patient. A break is near for you.

"It saves me around 2 gallons of gas each day," says this rural mail carrier

"Vic" Hammer is a rural mail carrier out of Appleton, Wisconsin. He drives the same route every day. He has 400 boxes, which means lots of starting and stopping. He used to use between 5 and 6 gallons each day.

Recently, Mr. Hammer purchased a new 1953 Plymouth equipped with Hy-Drive*. He is now using between 3½ and 4 gallons of gas a day on his route.

"I think this is an amazing performance," Mr. Hammer says. "I'm saving around 2 gallons of gas for the route each day. And it's 100 per cent easier serving the route now that I no longer have to shift gears."

Bedlam Reigns In Classroom

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YOU and I have visited in classrooms of the elementary grades in which we have heard the teacher giving directions to the entire group while some or many of the children were talking loudly or fooling. More than once we have seen a teacher in kindergarten, first or second grade, after calling part or all of the children together from a play activity for a group activity in which quiet is necessary, waiting many minutes for these children to get in place and settle down. The time the majority of the children and the patient teacher waste for the few non-conformists hardly can be reasonably justified.

Whereas we may have attended some junior or senior high school assemblies where we were impressed with the fine decorum and self-control of the students there, we have visited others where bedlam reigned.

Desirable Conformities

No one would argue even for a semblance of military regimen at school. But unless children there learn to conform to certain regulations that have obviously been formulated for the best welfare of the entire group, they hardly are being well educated for desirable conformities to regulations in our wider community. Isn't it true that the child who conforms well to certain regulations, has more opportunities for wide individual freedoms in other directions?

How would you like to be the junior choir leader of the average group of youngsters who waste so much of their leader's time and energy? A Scout master who must wait a long time for his troop to get ready for concerted procedure? A Sunday school teacher whose children often know nothing of reasonable conformity, having never learned it at home or school?

You and I know very well that one of the biggest reasons we can't find enough volunteers to lead these groups, is the usual lack of self-control among their members. While I must admit that this wide lack of self-control comes chiefly from relaxing home discipline, thanks to the prevailing philosophy of child rearing, I still believe the school could have a more civilizing effect on children than many a school does. Of course, some schools are still too highly regimented.

Some Suggestions

First let there be lots of freedom at school for each child so long as he conforms to the few desirable regulations. The short free-play and activity periods, periods of noisy purposive activities in the grades, periods of relaxation, laughter and fun during class periods in the junior and senior high schools, are desirable. In many classrooms and entire schools, there should be more of such.

But children should also learn with practice at school, to turn without unreasonable dawdling, prolonged talking and fooling, from comparative total freedom to serious self-control. Teachers who often give explanations and directions meant for all the children of a group, while some or many of these children are talking irreverently or just fooling around, are doing these children moral and social harm, and burdening themselves and other teachers or leaders with unnecessary nervous strain.
